

the world, even though it was not a large college. It sent out a great many people who had a great influence in many portions of the States. But I arrived at Occidental College just ~~as~~ at a transition stage. I got there when very shortly before I went, Occidental had ~~a great~~ had this great, outstanding Christian testimony. Two years before I went there the professor of Bible was ~~the~~ Professor H. W. Kellogg, ~~xxxx~~ a man who was ~~noticably~~ known as a great Bible teacher, a man who was constantly looking for the return of the Lord, a man who put Christ first in ~~everything~~, and whose influence was very strong over the students of that institution. But when I got there Dr. ~~Kellogg~~ Kellogg had gone. The directors of the institution had decided that the time had come to enlarge and to build it up and make it a greater institution that it might have a wider influence. The president had resigned from the institution a year before I went, and so they looked about for a man who would bring in a breath of fresh air, who would bring in ~~xxx~~ some progressive ideas and build it up into a great institution. They sent East and got a man who came out there with a language full of religious phraseology, but when you got underneath it, it was the antithesis of what Occidental had stood for before. And this president knew a little about Occidental's previous history, and so he made one condition of his coming that they get rid of the Bible professor. He said, "I want to teach the Bible myself." So they got ~~rid~~ rid of the Bible teacher, and ^{they} had this man for four years. At the end of my third year there he resigned. He went too fast for the fellows. They couldn't keep up with him; they became disgusted with him. He resigned and they got a another man who ~~back~~ but and was swinging back to the conservative view ~~and~~ who was really conservative in the ~~entire~~ entire, and who actually ~~stood~~ stood about where the first one did. The result is, you see, that I was at Occidental when ~~this~~ it was in a transition stage. It began with everybody giving lip service to the gospel, and from the heart.
