

and I mentioned to him that I was going to go to Princeton Seminary the next year, he said, My what are you going to do that for? He said, I've looked over these catalogues and I'm going to San Francisco Seminary. He said, I've looked over a lot of catalogues and most of them they are studying together to learn the truth, etc. He said, Princeton Seminary catalogue they've got the truth, they are just giving you the truth. He said, They have got a lot of old-fashioned ideas there they are just laying down to you. I don't want to go there. He said, You are facing, chasing dreams, he said. He said, I know what I want; I want to be pastor of a big church in southern California; I'm going to San Francisco Seminary and I'm going to be that. He said, Sometime when you're chasing dreams; sometime when you're up in Alaska where it's frozen and cold, I'll let you come down and preach for me for a month and let you get warmed up and get a little bit of money, he said.

He not only changed his views, but he changed his character! Where he was interested in serving the Lord and accomplishing for Him, he was now interested in getting good churches and a good living. That is one of the clearest instances I've ever seen of the way a man has been completely turned around by college. Now I can't say that he == he gave every evidence of being an earnest Christian. I can't say, I certainly don't believe he was a hypocrite. Whether he said words and didn't realize their implication and hadn't really believed in the Lord and wasn't saved, or whether he was led astray so that his life produced wood, hay and stubble rather than gold and silver, and before his death came to realize his errors, I don't know. But I certainly saw the change in that fellow's life. That's one of the--- I've seen changes in
