

Also as I mentioned yesterday about this professor of geology for a fellow who has the knowledge of an ordinary student to think he can refute somebody who knows -- who has spent a dozen times as much time studying and thinking on this subject as he, is rather ridiculous. Occasionally it happens. Occasionally there is a very brilliant fellow who can do it, but even they ~~is~~ usually are tremendously affected in their thinking. So that I think that's the real reason, if the conservative schools ^{were the old} ~~the~~ ones with prestige I think you'd find liberals wanting to go to them. I think that's why ~~w~~ they want to go to a liberal school.

I went into the Christian Science mother church in Boston, once. It was a bad experience because all around they have Paul says and then they have Mary Baker Eddy says. Then over here they have Jesus says, and Mary Baker Eddy says. They equate here with all the prophets and apostles and even with Christ himself as a source of quotations. But one of the quotations from her was so good, that I always have remembered it since. They quoted her ~~as~~ as saying, Never go into a place that is unclean or harmful (I forget her exact words) unless it is for the specific purpose of getting someone out of there.) I ~~is~~ thought that was very good. Unbelief is in a way like poison gas. You can say I got very strong lungs. But that doesn't mean it won't kill you and it doesn't mean you won't be somewhat injured by it, if you submit yourself to it.

You asked how I got through the education that I had. Of course I had unusual ~~x~~ circumstances with our close connection with the folks from the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, and the fact that Occidental wasn't half as ~~x~~ bad as it became later. It was just in the process of going. After I got my master's degree there I went to the Bible Institute of Los Angeles for a year, which did me a tremendous lot of good. But even so I must say it was only the
