

toward everything. But now that's largely changed in college. So we were getting from college people who had the attitude of trying to be as sloppy as possible. Now colleges have moved much more in the direction of thinking of the future, and being more careful in such matters. The unfortunate thing is if we are under the influence of colleges of 5 years ago, and then people compare us with colleges of today, it puts us at a disadvantage. So like I said I can't give the answer to it but I can give a few observations, and experiences.

I guess we won't get to the ~~xxx~~ third question today.