

very jealous and I'll just have to not go with you any more but I'm so sorry. He wrote a letter to his wife at the same time in which he told her she was completely wrong in thinking he cared anything about this woman, but in order to make her feel better he would not see her any more or let her drive him to meetings. And he got the letters mixed and put them in the wrong envelopes! Dr. English told me that and he knew of course I would not give any publicity to it.

Barnhouse was a peculiar personality and his children have been affected by it. But he did a lot of wonderfully fine Christian teaching. So I never was with those who disliked him, but I never was one of those who admired him inordinately.
