

Jesus Christ? Is Paul says that he only baptized these, wouldn't that prove that he didn't baptize any others? Because the Holy Spirit was keeping from error? Yes. Yes, the Holy Spirit could keep him from error. And make us absolutely sure that what he said was true, and ~~whether~~ whatever he said when speaking under the inspiration of the Holy Spirit was true, but Paul was speaking here not only as a writer of the book of the Scripture, he was giving us an example, of the ~~right~~ attitude of the Christian mind. And he said, I baptize ~~nobody~~ nobody. I thank God nobody but Crispus and Gaius, and then he says, Now look here. I do remember there was another family, also the household of Stephanus. Now he says, I forgot about Stephanus for a minute. I didn't mention it. I said there was ~~nobody~~ nobody but Chispus and Gaius. Maybe I have forgotten somebody else too. Besides I know not whether I baptized any others. Paul says, I want you to give me the benefit of the doubt. My mind is fallible. Let's not accuse people of misrepresenting, when their memories fail at some point. I don't know of a man whose memory doesn't fail.

"For Christ sent me not to baptize, but to preach the gospel: not with wisdom of words, lest the cross of Christ should be made of none effect. For the preaching of the cross is to them that perish foolishness, but unto us which are saved, it is the power of God." We had a student here some years ago who told me he had not been a Christian and he had received letters from ~~an aunt~~ an aunt, and he was carrying on ~~his~~ business for this aunt, and doing certain things for her, and she lived in a different country, and he was carrying on this work, and she was writing, and she wrote him a letter, and she said, I have come to know Jesus Christ as my Saviour, and I have accepted Him as my Lord, and I am saved through Him. And she told about this conversion, and then she went on to discuss the business. My, he said, it just sounded like silly talk, just foolishness, and he said in the next letter talking about business she had another testimony. Well, he said, it sounds just like silly talk. He said letter after letter had this along with these important matters that he had to deal with, and the business she was
