that the best effort you make, the hardest work anyone of us can do ~~is~~-very, very far short of the infinite Divine wisdom. He wants us to do very best and use our minds to the utmost, but then to realize that we still lack wisdom, and He wants us to ask God that giveth to all men liberally and upbraideth not, and it shall be given him. We think that the best we can ...  $\surd$  we try to look at things objectively, We want to make it sure that it is not after the lust of flesh, or the lust of the eyes, ~~of~~ ~~of~~ or any kind of private life that is leading us to the direction where we are going. ~~We~~ So, we should desire to do His will, but then we say to the Lord, and say, Lord, I lack wisdom. I do not know. And we pray for wisdom, and then he says, we ask, and it shall be given him, but let him ask in faith, not waring, for he that wavereth is like <sup>the wave of</sup> ~~the~~ sea driven with the wind and tossed. I used to be that way. When I was in my eitheens, if I had a simple little decision to make, should I go with these people here or ~~th-~~ with those people over there? As the wave of the sea driven with the wind and tossed. ~~I-s--~~... Whichever I <sup>simple</sup> decided I wished I had decided for the other ... so I did. Some little/decisions it was the hardest thing ~~to-find-~~. I found that ~~biggers~~ <sup>little</sup> decisions are easier to make than the ~~smaller~~-ones. ~~It--~~ But when I made little simple decisions, I just would worry about them that I had made wrong decision. Whichever I ~~decided~~ decided, I would wish that I had made ~~ht-~~ the other one. The way to cure myself of that, I figured that, ... I should have been able to do it from this verse. But I did not. Here is what I did. I said, when there is something that I must do, I will think through the best I can and then try to decide what is right, but if the circumstances are such that you cannot tell which is right, I am going to flip a coin. And ~~the~~ then do the opposite of what the coin says. It says, I ~~pu-~~ flip the coin, I would be dsappointed, ~~-but-~~ in what I said, but it says, if I say intentio ally . . . in advance, then I will do the opposite, and I found it in the years I ~~gover-e--~~ got over that being unstable in that way. Well, it is difficult to decide, if you do not have the data to the best you can, and step forward, and know that the Lord will give you wisdom if you are truly consecrated to Him, and  $\surd$  truly seeking His way. You do the best you can, and you pray the Lord ~~go-~~ to give you wisdom, and if there are sufficient
