

invention of the private competing corporation. So that instead of a man who made an invention having to gather tremendous sums of money in order to work it to the point where it is practical, and to produce it and to distribute it, you get a little money from thousands of people who put the money in, risking only what they put in not everything as one man does if he tries to develop (the invention). And <sup>they</sup> it puts this together and it amakes money for many people who go together to form a corporation, and this corporation is able to hire the best man it can to accomplish the development of this invention for the carrying out of this ~~industriail~~ <sup>industrial</sup> thing. Of course, we have about the wickedness of the great corporations. I am sure corporations are run by men, and human beings are wicked, and there is wickedness everywhere, and there is graft everywhere. That is true as long as there are sinners in this world. But the thing that has developed our civilization has been the fact that these corporations were not government organizations that had a monopoly, and <sup>could</sup> go forward and do many fine things but when things fail they just increase taxes a little bit. Or they hide it somewhere in their reports. But these corporations have been competing against other corporations. And if a corporation says, We have got to find a place for all the relatives of ~~our~~ all the leaders of our corporation and everything. everything is going nice with us. Or we have got some ~~grat~~ graft that is giving us special advantages. The next things you know the corporation will go bankrupt. That's happened over and over and over. Because we have competition among them. So we have this tremendously involved system we have today. Well you might say, We as Christians are interested in the Lord and the Lord's work, what do we care? What if the world has this tremendous advanced material culture we have today. <sup>pr</sup> whether we live like people did 150 yrs. ago when you could hardly get anything for at least 100 miles away from where you were. The life to us today would seem absolutely unbelievably primitive 100 years ago. ~~What's~~ the difference after all? Well let's say from a Christian viewpoint
