

recognize shapes and colors, it recognizes depth. It can adapt itself to depth. There are two eyes, and they work together to give you one picture. The right hand side of both eyes conveys messages to the left side of your brain, and the left hand side of both eyes conveys messages to the right side of your brain and these four sets of messages are all combined so you think you see one picture, and you see it in depth. It's marvellous. It's beyond comprehension. But God has created these marvellous eyes, and many other marvellous features of the body He has made. He could have made the whole universe just a marvellous machine, everything just to work this way. Why did He need to have us to lead souls to know Him? Why does He leave us on earth after we are saved. Why does He not just take us right to Him? He could bring the Word of God in regenerating force to every individual that He chooses to, right like that. Why does He chose to use us for the purpose? He could cause people to grow in grace right instantaneously.

One of the creeds says that when we die we are immediately made completely holy. I don't believe that. I have not found it anywhere in the Bible. One of our finest creeds says it. It says that at death we are made completely holy immediately. If God could make us completely holy at death he could just as well do it at the instant of conversion, but He chooses not to. We are justified immediately and instantaneously, but our sanctification is a slow process. God chooses to give us a part in His work. You have a part in God's plan. There are individuals God wants you to lead to Christ and no one else can lead to Christ. There are individuals
