

So if this is what the picture means, we have the question: Does the picture of the image when the iron and the clay in some way covered the whole period since 400 A.D. is that possible? That long period. Or is it possible that there is an unmentioned interval somewhere in the picture? Is an unmentioned interval a possibility? That is a question that cannot be answered from Daniel 2, and if we find no parallel to that thing we would certainly say it is not worthy of consideration.

So as we go on we will want to see whether there are parallels to this idea.

Now I'm just ready to start III Prophecy of Daniel 7. I had three pages already ~~written~~ written for it, but it is already 10 of.

Maybe I can barely refer to the assignment today which asks you to find parallels to the eight parts. You noticed in it the answer to the question whether there are 4 kingdoms or 5, I am sure. You noticed definite parallels to some of these parts and to others they were quite different. So we will look into those next time. The assignment is already posted.
