

Scholars Agree

Crossroads, Oct-Dec., 1964, p. 38

It is clear to modern Old Testament Scholarship that not all these laws were literally given at Sinai, not even a large majority of them. They come from all periods of Israel's history.

Adult Teacher, April, 1966, p. 20

Since the 1800's scholars have been in more or less general agreement that the author (or authors) [of Zechariah] lived in post exilic times, during the late Persian or even the Greek period. They date the writer roughly around 300 B. C.

Adult Teacher, March, 1966, p. 20

(Statement about the almost universal agreement of literary experts regarding authorship of Zech. 9- 14 and Zech. 1- 8)

Adult Teacher, May 1965, p. 18

Scholars generally agree concerning the separate stories in 1 and 2 Samuel that were circulated separately and have been put together at a time when there were differing versions of a given story.