

~~rather the statement~~

no statement that faith is a bridge, but rather the statement that Jesus Christ is the Bridge, it shows the sort of superficial criticism which people are apt ~~to fall into~~ ^{when} into which people are apt to fall if they are simply looking for excuses to oppose something.

God does not want us to spend all our time trying to ~~pick~~ pick little flaws in everything that ~~x~~ is done. He wants us to spend our time finding means of presenting Christian truth and advancing it. That this ^{booklet} ~~book~~ presents Christian truth, advances it, urges people to turn to the ~~Lord~~ Lord, and to follow Him. It does exactly what does ?? in this regard? ? It plainly recognizes ^{which} recognizes at point after point that there is nothing/we can do apart from Christ; that it is as Christ works in us that we can make ~~progress~~ progress. It is by putting our faith in Him, taking Him as the Captain of our salvation, looking to Him in everything, that we go ahead. This is the very heart of Calvinism.

The sort of criticism that ~~x~~ (105/8) can find ~~at~~ flaws ~~fr~~ from a viewpoint of Calvinism in this pamphlet could find ~~flaw~~ flaws in just ~~about~~ about any every sermon that was ever given, in any Sunday School lesson that was ever written, even in the Bible itself. In almost any part of the Bible we find ^{many} statements that would come under condemnation from this viewpoint. Actually, the Westminster Confession and Catechisms are a ^{certain} summary of/great and vital truths of the Bible; but it is the Bible that is the basic authority. If we put anything else in the position ~~of~~ of being the basic authority we are in a dangerous situation.

Even worse than that, to take something else as the ~~exclusive~~ exclusive authority can easily put us outside Christian ground altogether. The Bible is the final and basic /authority. We must use every means we can to advance all the different facets of these Bible truths. These booklets do not claim to be a presentation of systematic theology, but to take certain ~~aspects~~ vital aspects of Christian truth and present them.. This they do in my opinion in
