

going to take the plane north to(5) And so I went into the Post Office where they sent telegrams, ~~xxxxxxx~~ in all the S.A. countries the postal service is under the govt. And there, as in most European countries, the postal service also handles telegrams. And so I went in there, and I was going to send a telegram. And I was going to tell them that I would arrive the next morning. And the next day I got there, and nobdoy was there to meet me. ~~Wmf~~ And fortunately, someone who had ~~W~~ seen me at the conference and had recognized me, was there. He happened to be ^{a relative of} the man I expected to meet me, and asked me to drive through town with them. And I saw ~~the~~ kater on, the man I was supposed to see, and I told him that I had sent a telegram, but he said, did you send it in the Post Office. And ~~W~~ I said yes. Well, he said, that is the govt. He said, there is an English company that ~~W~~ sends telegrams in S.A. An ~~English~~ English Company. And he ~~W~~ said, if you had gone to the office of the English company, I would have gotten it the same day. But, the govt. might be a couple of days late. Y⁰u never know. And that is the tendency of monopolies, and it is the tendency of.....(6)

But just as far as matters of this type can be left to matters of individual ~~W~~ enterprise, the better off you are. There are some things that the govt has to do, but the more we can ~~xxxxxxx~~ restrict those, the more we can save the advantage of free enterprise for this nation.

(question) Well, of course, if you get a company that is so strong that there can't be any competition, you soon lose the benefit of free enterprise. Because, there is nobody else that can equal it. And so, the theory of our system is to try to keep free enterprise in existence by seeing to it that no one gets so big that it is impossible for a competitor to start. Now, we have General Electric and Westinghouse, and very ~~W~~ good ~~W~~ service from both, as they are competing. General Electric, if it swallowed up Westinghouse, there would be a great tendency for the people who are in/ good jobs to ~~W~~ settle back and enjoy life and know that you had to come to them, there was nowhere else for them to go. But, as it is now, ~~W~~ if the General Electric men get a little bit lazy and careless, why Westinghouse will get ahead of them. And they are com peting.
