

has started in the providence of God during the first coming, but the actual hitting of the image comes at the second coming, and ~~suppose~~ suppose there is a great millennial reign before the coming of Christ, not pictured in this illustration. Then, according to that, at the coming of Christ the great ~~world~~ anti-god world power is wrecked, destroyed, utterly annihilated, perfectly all right, fits the picture, but wehn ~~it~~ does the stone become the mountain which fills the whole earth. Well, the postmil says no, when ~~W~~ Christ comes back in the resurrection of all in the general judgment, and the earth is destroyed, and there is a new heaven, and a new earth. The eternal age begins. That isn't the stone becoming a mountain, filling the whole earth. That is something ~~entirely~~ entirely different. It is hardly a picture of that. So it doesn't fit a postmil picture. It just doesn't seem to.....end of D 40
