

inspired which inspire me the most. Now, that is a confusion of words if there ever was one. ~~The~~ He uses a word ~~x~~ in ~~x~~ about three or four different ways ~~xx~~ and putting them all together in one sentence. ~~It-We-say~~ When we say that the Bible is inspired we don't mean anything like what we mean when we say we see a beautiful view and are inspired. It is something entirely different. It ~~is~~ is technical term which the Christian Church has used, taking it from that verse in II Timothy for what God did through the Holy Scriptures. And technically used it ~~xxx~~ refers to nothing else in the world except to the Holy Scriptures, for that is the only writing with which we have any reason to say that this particularly applies to it, it is a technical expression for what God did in keeping the Bible free ~~from~~- from error. It is very important that we have clearly in mind ~~what~~ the importance of this use of technical words in their technical sense. Because our English is so confusing. A young man said to me ~~once--one~~ once, How can you believe the Bible, it contradicts itself. I said tell me one case where it contradicts itself. Well, he says, It says in early Genesis how Noah took all the animals in the world and put them into the ark; ~~and then you-~~ he said that would have to be a pretty big thing wouldn't it, and then you read over in Exodus that the children of Israel carried the ark on their shoulders ~~as~~ as they ~~walk-~~ walked through the wilderness. Now, anybody who ~~know-~~ knows anything about the Bible knows that that word ~~xxx~~ ark is used in an entirely different sense, and when it says ...and the other ~~says~~ ...used for two entirely different senses. And you could use the word inspiration in ~~man as~~ as just as many senses as you want...