Gospel Genres

Robert C. Newman
Biblical Theological Seminary
What is a Genre?

- "A kind, sort, type; said of works of literature, art, etc." Webster’s New World Dictionary
  - Literature: fiction, biography, novel, poetry, murder mystery, limerick, sermon ...
  - Art: portrait, landscape, abstract, still life, cartoon, caricature, art deco ...

- A sort of written, oral or visual communication that arouses particular expectations in the reader/listener due to certain distinctive markers.
Common Genres in the Gospels

- Narrative
- Dialogue
- Miracle Account
- Controversy Account
- Discourse
- Parable
- Symbolic Action
- Genealogy
What sorts of things characterize narratives?

- A narrative is a story or tale of events, either factual or fictional.

- Components of a narrative:
  - Actors/Characters
  - Events/Action
  - Scene(s)
  - Plot(s)
Types of narrative in the Gospels

- Annunciation/nativity stories
- Calling/vocation stories
- Recognition stories
- Witness stories
- Encounter stories
- Conflict/controversy stories
- Pronouncement stories
- Miracle stories
- Passion stories
- Hybrid stories
What characterizes dialogue?

- Recorded speech of two or more speakers interacting with one another

- Characterized by:
  - Direct discourse
  - Relatively little narration

- Used to:
  - Show character
  - Record debate/argument
  - Answer questions
What characterizes a miracle account?

- Obviously, a narrative in which a miracle is the central action
- Characteristics:
  - The need is described
  - Jesus’ help is sought
  - Person in need (or helper) expresses faith
  - Jesus performs miracle
  - Characters respond to miracle/Jesus
What characterizes a controversy account?

- Narrative dominated by a controversy
  - May be more dialogue or more discourse

- Interpretive Qs:
  - Plot – what is the controversy?
  - Actors – where are they coming from?
  - Actions – what do they say/do; how relate to the controversy?
What characterizes discourse?

- The speech of a single speaker
- May be included in narrative or may stand alone
- Things to look for:
  - What is the topic?
  - How is speaker developing the topic?
  - What is the flow of the argument?
What characterizes a parable?

- A brief story, told to illustrate a spiritual or ethical teaching
- So it has characteristics of:
  - narrative
  - story-telling
- It usually teaches by analogy:
  - Tenor – the lesson topic being taught
  - Vehicle – the story being used
  - Points of resemblance – how the tenor is analogous to the vehicle
What characterizes a symbolic action?

- This is an acted parable
- The action is often unusual:
  - Cursing fig tree, washing feet
- The audience/reader is expected to:
  - Realize that the action is symbolic
  - Try to discern what it is symbolic of
  - i.e., what is the tenor of which the action is the vehicle?
What characterizes a genealogy?

- More common in the OT than the NT
- A list of names of ancestors & descendants, usually marked to indicate which are which
- Interpretive questions:
  - What is the author’s purpose in giving this genealogy?
  - Why does he include or exclude various items?
The End

There is probably no end to this sort of analysis, but this is a start, and we need to stop here!